SkipTheNoise media

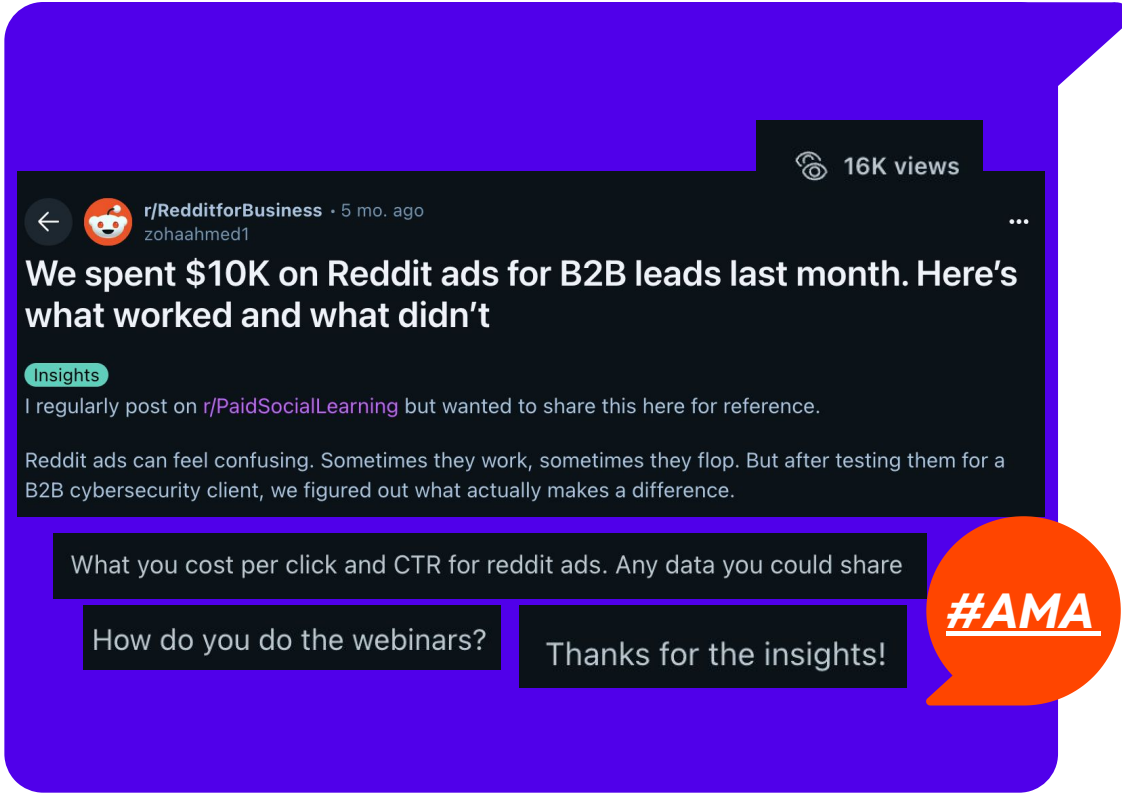
2025

Reddit Performance Playbook

From the case study that got Reddit's attention..

We decided to deepdive into our approach and give it away for free!

Bonus: 2-Week Trial & $500 Ad Spend



Agenda

01 3-Pillar System (Part 1)

02 90-Day Implementation Guide (Part 1)

03 Smart Targeting & Creatives (Part 2)

04 Campaign Execution (Part 2)

05 Measurement (Part 2)

Data over Feelings

WHY MOST PERFORMANCE MARKETERS FAIL ON REDDIT

Feelings

Our audience is probably not on Reddit

We can invest more in Meta ads

Reddit's ad platform is overly complex

B2B ads don't work on this platform

Reddit users don't like ads

Reddit ads are a waste of money

Reality

78%of Reddit users research on Reddit before buying

There's an audience on Reddit for "almost" everything

Meta will cap your reach and returns after a certain level of spend

It takes 5-mins to setup ads

B2B has the highest ceiling on Reddit

Redditors hate bad advertising. Native content performs well

2-3 profitability with proper setup

3-Pillar System Overview

‹SkipTheNoise media› ›

Behavioral Targeting

- Map personas to community psychology
- Research actual pain points discussed in subreddits
- Target engaged communities, not massive audiences
- Focus on 10K-100K member communities for best results

Systematic Testing

- Week 1-2: Baseline establishment ($20-25/day budgets)
- Week 3-4: Optimization based on performance data
- Month 2: Horizontal scaling to similar communities
- Month 3: Advanced strategies and scaling budgets

Full Funnel Measurement

- Track beyond last-click attribution
- Measure view-through conversions
- Calculate lifetime value impact
- Monitor cross-device conversion paths

$10K Reddit Ads Case Study

From our viral post in r/RedditforBusiness that led to the AMA partnership

Setting up your campaign

The Challenge:
B2B cybersecurity client needed qualified leads Reddit ads felt confusing and inconsistent
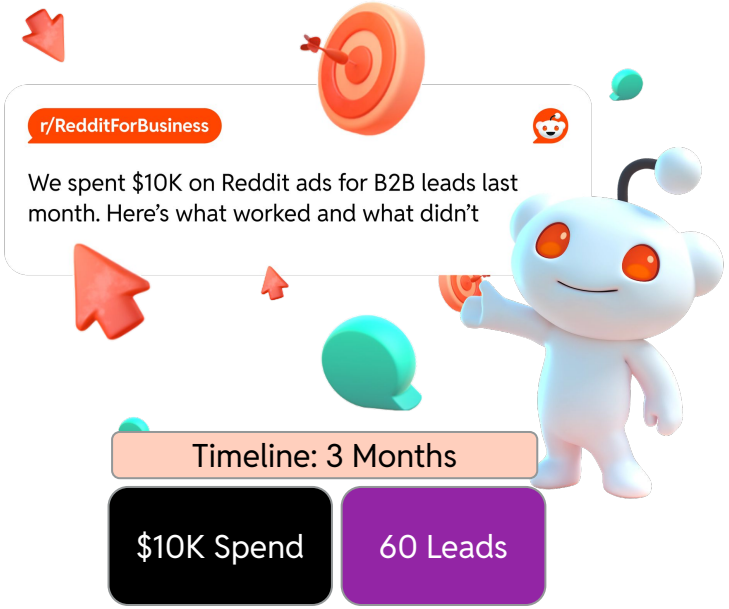
Traditional approaches weren't working

Our Research Method:
Google search: "cybersecurity reviews Reddit" and analyze first 2 pages of results
Target engaged communities, not just large ones

Avoid Dynamic Expansion
Sounds good in theory (cheaper clicks) -> Reality: Random traffic from unqualified subreddits

Webinars = Game Changer
Before Webinars: 3-5 leads/month at $250 cost per lead
After Webinars: Higher volume + better quality leads
People who signed up were more engaged



Read More

List of High Intent Communities

High-Intent Subreddits 1/2

eComm & Retail Services

Tier 1 - Highest Intent ($25-50/day each):
- r/ecommerce (180K) - Store owners and operators
- r/shopify (200K) - Shopify store managers
- r/FulfillmentByAmazon (180K) - Amazon sellers
- r/dropshipping (150K) - Dropship business owners
- r/AmazonSeller (85K) - Amazon FBA sellers

Tier 2 - Good Intent ($15-25/day each):
- r/shopifyowners (25K) - Active store owners
- r/ecommercebusiness (15K) - Growth-focused retailers
- r/amazonprivatelabel (12K) - Private label sellers
- r/EtsySellers (120K) - Etsy marketplace sellers
- r/WooCommerce (45K) - WordPress eComm users

Consumer Communities (High Purchase Intent):
- r/BuyItForLife (1.5M) - Quality-focused buyers
- r/deals (1.8M) - Deal-seeking consumers
- r/frugal (1.2M) - Budget-conscious shoppers
- r/reviews (450K) - Research-heavy buyers

SaaS & Tech

Tier 1 - Highest Intent ($30-60/day each):
- r/SaaS (400K) - Software buyers and builders
- r/startups (950K) - Growth-stage companies
- r/entrepreneur (1.8M) - Business tool buyers
- r/webdev (950K) - Developer tool users
- r/sysadmin (650K) - Enterprise IT decision makers

Tier 2 - Good Intent ($20-35/day each):
- r/selfhosted (280K) - Infrastructure enthusiasts
- r/devops (180K) - DevOps tool buyers
- r/programming (4.2M) - Developer communities
- r/APIs (85K) - Integration-focused developers
- r/nocode (75K) - No-code solution seekers

Specialized SaaS Niches ($15-25/day each):
- r/CRM (35K) - CRM software users
- r/analytics (85K) - Data tool buyers
- r/projectmanagement (45K) - PM software users
- r/salesforce (125K) - Salesforce ecosystem
- r/googleanalytics (25K) - Analytics specialists

B2B Services & Consulting

General B2B (Tier 1 - $25-45/day each):
- r/smallbusiness (1.2M) - SMB decision makers
- r/businessowners (180K) - Business owners
- r/freelance (180K) - Service providers as buyers
- r/consulting (85K) - Independent consultants
- r/sales (250K) - Sales professionals

Marketing & Advertising Verticals:
- r/marketing (850K) - Marketing professionals
- r/PPC (45K) - Paid advertising specialists
- r/SEO (180K) - SEO professionals and buyers
- r/socialmedia (120K) - Social media managers
- r/content_marketing (75K) - Content professionals
- r/digitalmarketing (550K) - Digital marketers
- r/leadgeneration (18K) - Lead gen specialists
- r/MarketingAutomation (15K) - Automation buyers

High-Intent Subreddits 2/2

Cybersecurity

High-Intent Security Communities ($30-70/day each):
- r/cybersecurity (850K) - Security professionals
- r/netsec (750K) - Network security specialists
- r/ITCareerQuestions (280K) - IT professionals seeking tools
- r/SecurityCareerAdvice (85K) - Security career focused
- r/CompTIA (180K) - IT certification seekers

Specialized Security Niches ($20-40/day each):
- r/securityblueprint (12K) - Security architecture
- r/AskNetsec (180K) - Security Q&A community
- r/malware (95K) - Malware analysis professionals
- r/ReverseEngineering (125K) - Technical security experts
- r/pwned (25K) - Penetration testing community

Fintech & Financial Services

Personal Finance (High Purchase Intent):
- r/personalfinance (15M) - Financial decision makers
- r/investing (1.8M) - Investment tool users
- r/SecurityHolders (85K) - Active investors
- r/financialindependence (1.5M) - Wealth builders
- r/CreditCards (1.2M) - Credit product users

Business Finance ($25-50/day each):
- r/smallbusinessfinance (45K) - SMB finance needs
- r/accounting (185K) - Accounting professionals
- r/bookkeeping (85K) - Bookkeeping service buyers
- r/QuickBooks (45K) - QuickBooks users
- r/taxpros (25K) - Tax professionals

Local Subreddits

You can also look into specific cities/regions where you're looking to gain reach and drive conversions, for example:
r/personalfinancecanada (800k)
r/askTO (290K)

These are local subreddits to Toronto and Canada, which means high relevance and intent (in some cases) if we talk directly to local audiences.

Messaging can be more aligned with their language, seasonality or other triggers

Getting Started: 90-day Implementation Guide

Month 1: Foundation Phase ($500-$1500 Budget)

Covered in Part 2

Month 2 & 3 + Success Benchmarks

Covered in Part 2

Insights from Previous AMA on Reddit

Insights from Previous AMA 1/2

My take on these questions!

ilovefishfillets • 23d ago

What's the best approach to messaging in Reddit ads?

Target niche subreddits where your buyers gather, use real pain points you observe in those communities, and frame benefits around what makes your solution unique—avoid generic corporate language in favor of native Reddit tone.

Full breakdown in Part 2.

Accomplished-Push942 • 23d ago

What ad types work best on Reddit?

Test simple static images with text overlay and carousels (3–4 cards) using native Reddit language and authentic results. Boosted organic posts perform best—the strategy is different than Meta or LinkedIn.

Full breakdown in Part 2.

Purple-Gate-5023 • 22d ago

How will this work for real estate, how would someone promote their services on this platform ie; more leads for a real estate agent

Focus on the targeting and messaging, start with $20/day budget and really hone in on testing 2 subreddits at a time. Niche subreddits to use (use local ones for relevance): r/TorontoRealEstate (Based in Toronto where I live) or r/PropertyManagement. For creatives/messaging, offer genuine value like downloadable guides, market reports or property alerts rather than direct sales pitches.

Altruistic_Anxiety84 • 22d ago

How do I test whether people care about my product idea without making them fill out long forms or sign up for early access?

I'm completely new to ads - have been getting some clicks but very very low fill rates. Thanks !

From paid ads pov, develop a landing page that highlights the pain points, benefits and sign up form. Optimize to sign ups. Strategically, without investing dollars do you research on what you're solving for customers. A simple Google or GPT search will tell you how many people are going through it. Review all the comments in those subreddit threads. That should give you a brief idea.

LiliaHreshchuk • 22d ago

What are the main distinctions, in your opinion, between optimizing campaigns for specialized B2B companies and more general B2C products?

2 Reply Award Share ...

Optimizations are completely different - B2B for lead gen and B2C for Purchases. B2B lifecycle is longer as it's priced higher, whereas B2C entry point is lower (excluding high ticket items). Messaging is completely different as you're getting B2B users into the top of funnel using lead magnets like free trials or resources, whereas B2C you're looking for an impulse purchase with discounts and free shipping.

Insights from Previous AMA 2/2

My take on these questions!

polygraph-net · 23d ago

We've tested Reddit Ads for a few months using thousands of dollars, and we've worked with a few companies who've also advertised on Reddit, and in all cases almost every click is either from a bot or immediately bounces. We've tried speaking to Reddit about this many times but they ignore us.

What percentage of your clicks were from bots?

Which bot detection tool did you use to detect the bots?

What percentage of your clicks immediately bounced?

Thanks.

Bots are an issue with almost every platform, at one point TikTok was the highest botted traffic and clients use to stay away from it. It has improved a lot since then.

Now coming back to Reddit, we've tested with Microsoft Clarity and data seems to be normal. We have also boosted posts in subreddits and received legit feedback/comments from users, so eye-test it works but if your offer, ad copy or text isn't relevant people will click and drop-off.

It's also important to target low-fraud rate geos like US, Canada, some EU countries. Avoid Tier 3 countries where there's a high chance of botting like India or Pakistan.

cye_seid · 25d ago

Did you notice differences in ad performance between broader subreddits and smaller, niche ones? If so, how did it affect your results?

4 Reply Award Share ···

Reddit works best with niche subreddits, broader ones are great for driving the costs down but not as effective. We have tried doing Automated Expansion and targeting broad subreddits in 1 ad-set. But running into the same issue, budgets don't allow us to reach any 1 subreddit fully. Niche subreddits, on the other hand offer way more relevancy and intent. Spending $50/day on 1-2 small subreddits has surpassed performance than 1-2 broad subreddits.

cye_seid · 25d ago

How did you identify the most effective subreddits for your ads?

Use simple searches, AI tools, and Reddit's own recommendations to find niche subreddits where your buyers already hang out, then double-check relevance by reading a few threads and being active in those communities.

Shelf-Made · 22d ago

u/cole-interteam I've seen you comment in discussions that Reddit ads perform well for specific industries. So how specific? Any B2B SaaS? Or just some B2B SaaS? Any B2B service. Or just some B2B services? How specific/niche would it have to be for it to be successful? From what you've seen on the ground, which specific types of SaaS or services have done really well and why?

5 Reply Award Share ···

B2B SaaS and Cybersecurity have done extremely well in our experience. But I'd suggest any other B2B niche would do well, as long as you remain niche and consistently using relevant ad copies.

Full breakdown in Part 2.

xtina3435 · 24d ago

Which ad creative formats (e.g., static images, videos, free-form) resonated most and drove conversions?

4 Reply Award Share ···

Answered in the previous slide, full breakdown in Part 2.

Ready to Scale?
Let’s Talk Phase 2

What to Expect in Phase 2

‹SkipTheNoise media› ›

What's inside Phase 2:

- Advanced targeting and audience segmentation (lookalikes, custom audiences, retargeting sequences)
- Creative testing frameworks that 3-4x your performance
- Month 2–3 scaling strategies (how we went from $20/day to $500+/day profitably)
- Success benchmarks and troubleshooting (what to do when CTR drops, CPL spikes, etc.)
- Pixel setup and attribution mastery

Why a call?
We walk you through exactly what's working for SaaS clients right now and customize the strategy to your specific goals, budget, and timeline.

Book a 30-minute call:
https://calendly.com/socialwhiz-sales/30min?month=2025-11

No sales pitch—just insights and a clear next step if it makes sense for you.

Still have questions?

Start Reddit ads with Free 2-Week Trial + $500 in Reddit Ad Credits

No commitment. No credit card. Just real results.

Claim 2-Week Free Trial

Book a Call

This 2-week trial includes:

- Setup guidance on targeting and creative testing
- Direct feedback on your campaigns
- Access to my team for questions